- 3> How many species of sharks are there?
- 4> Great white sharks can eat a lot. But how much?
- 5> Are sharks hatched from eggs or are they birthed live?
- 6> Great White Sharks are about how long when they are born?
- 7> What is a shark's skeleton made of?
- 8> Which US state averages the most shark attacks per year?
- 9> What are baby sharks called?
- 10> What is a Great White Shark's favorite meal?

Answers:

- 1> Up to 40 mph - That is about the same speed if not more than a lion or tiger can run!
- 2> Milward Shark - As crazy as the other names are, the cookie cutter shark and the wobbegong shark are real! Wobbegong sharks are about 8 feet long and Cookiecutter sharks are normally only about 2 feet long.
- 3> Over 350 - Here are some examples! Hammerhead, Tiger, Great White, Leopard and Angel Sharks!
- 4> Around 11 tons per year - A human being eats close to half a ton per year, that means sharks eat twenty times as much as we do!

5> Both - Some sharks like the Great White are born live. Other sharks, like Horn Sharks are hatched from eggs!

6> 5 feet - Great White Sharks can sometimes be born with up to 12 siblings! They are on their own from the beginning too as they would be easy prey for their mother!

7> Cartilage - A shark has a cartilaginous skeleton so the shark stays light and it uses less energy.

8> Florida - California is a close second. However, there are normally less than 30 attacks in the US every year.

9> Pups - Some species are up to 5 feet in length when they are born!

10> Seals - Great Whites rarely attack humans. When they do, they often do not eat humans.
