

POP CULTURE TRIVIA QUESTIONS II

( www.TriviaChamp.com )

- 1> What Disney princess was originally Badroulbadour in the Arabian Nights version of the story?
- 2> What Beirut-born Canadian actor has played bass with a band called Dogstar?
- 3> How did the movie "Wife Beware" earn its place in cinematic history?
- 4> This movie never tells you what is glowing inside the briefcase, but as a prop, it's simply an orange light bulb. Some fans say the light is Marcellus Wallace's soul. What movie?
- 5> Confused fans of "The Blair Witch Project" went looking for the three lost filmmakers in Burkettsville in what state?
- 6> In a 1954 book "Seduction of the Innocent", Dr. Fredric Wertham worried that what superhero was secretly having a gay affair with his Boy Wonder?
- 7> Which of the Teletubbies did Jerry Falwell's people accuse of being gay?
- 8> What former presidential candidate raised eyebrows (among other things) when he endorsed Viagra?
- 9> Aside from being a former skier and member of the French Canadian FLQ, why was a Marvel Comics superhero called Northstar so unusual?
- 10> In 1973, what network's Saturday line-up was "All in the Family," "MASH," "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "The Bob Newhart Show" and "The Carol Burnett Show"?
- 11> Archie Andrews couldn't seem to decide between Betty and Veronica. What are their last names?
- 12> Which talk-show host was once the mayor of Cincinnati?
- 13> What US series was based on Man About the House, had a spinoff based on

George and Mildred, and had a sequel based on Robin's Nest, all three of which were hit UK shows?

14> When Howard Hughes cast this actress in a western called "The Outlaw," he also designed a pulley-powered bra for her. Who?

15> In "She Done Him Wrong", to whom does Mae West say, "Why don't you come up sometime and see me"?

Answers:

1> Jasmine - Her name meant Full Moon of Many Moons.

2> Keanu Reeves - Their grunge band had been called Small Fecal Matter before adopting Dogstar, from a name that appears in a Henry Miller book.

3> The first movie shown at a drive-in - It was the June 7, 1933 feature at Richard Hollingshead's Camden, New Jersey, drive-in.

4> Pulp Fiction - It's probably just a nod to Robert Aldrich's 1955 film noir Kiss Me Deadly. The original script said it was diamonds, but that had already been done in Reservoir Dogs.

5> Maryland - They would steal the signs.

6> Batman - He also felt that Wonder Woman was giving little girls the "wrong ideas" about a woman's place in society, but his book did lead to Comic Code Authority censorship for about 40 years.

7> Tinky Winky - He's purple, he has a triangle on his head and he wears a magic bag that looks suspiciously like a purse.

8> Bob Dole - In one especially creepy ad for Pepsi, he ogles Britney Spears.

9> First openly gay superhero - He was in Alpha Flight, Marvel's first all-Canadian superteam.

10> CBS - That may well have been the best night of TV ever strung together.

11> Cooper and Lodge - In 2009, he finally proposed to Veronica.

12> Jerry Springer - As a city councillor, he was once caught paying a prostitute ... by check, no less.

13> Three's Company - The Ropers spinoff was based on George and Mildred, while the sequel Three's A Crowd was based on Robin's Nest.

14> Jane Russell - Ironically, Russell secretly wore her own underwear while making the movie.

15> Cary Grant - The full line is - 'I always did like a man in a uniform. That one fits you grand. Why don't you come up sometime and see me? I'm home every evening.'

